People: what do you notice?

Five moments to examine with your team.

Every one-to-one is a task update.

Describe a specific example before deciding what it means.

Development means more work without a conversation.

Describe a specific example before deciding what it means.

You assume everyone wants the same next role.

Describe a specific example before deciding what it means.

A person's circumstances are ignored or intruded on.

Describe a specific example before deciding what it means.

Potential is discussed without asking what the person wants.

Describe a specific example before deciding what it means.

Choose one moment.

Notice which dimension gets attention and which gets overlooked. Ask one person what capability they want to develop and discuss one appropriate opportunity to practice.

Bring the observation into the room.

Bring a question you want to ask your team beyond the task list. We will consider the full person. Save these questions.